

Removing Judgements

Once a judgement has been set in student tracker, it can be easily removed by simply clicking the same judgment again in the assess popover:

This screenshot shows the Student Tracker interface for 'Class 2, Reading' in the 2015/2016 school year, specifically for 'Spring 1'. A popover menu is open over a cell in the 'Range of Reading' row for student 'Dorothy Burke'. The popover contains four judgment options: 'Not Where You Should Be' (orange circle), 'Where You Should Be' (green circle, highlighted with a blue border), 'Taught but not Assessed' (grey circle), and 'Not Covered - SEN' (light grey circle). Below these are three smaller circles for 'Autumn 1', 'Autumn 2', and 'Spring 1', with the 'Spring 1' circle also highlighted. An 'Evidence' button is at the bottom of the popover. The background grid shows various colored cells for other students and rows.

This screenshot shows the same Student Tracker interface as above, but the 'Where You Should Be' judgment in the 'Range of Reading' row for 'Dorothy Burke' has been removed. The 'Evidence' button is still visible in the popover. The background grid shows the same data as the previous screenshot, but the cell for 'Dorothy Burke' in the 'Range of Reading' row is now empty.
